Park(ing) Day 2018

What is Park(ing) Day?

“Park(ing) Day is an annual open-source global event where citizens, artists, and activists collaborate to temporarily transform parking spaces in to “PARK(ing)” spaces: temporary public places. The mission of Park(ing) Day is to call attention to the need for more urban open space, to generate critical debate around how to improve the quality of urban human habitat.”

On September 21st, the American Society of Landscape Architecture (ASLA) will participate in an annual event in which local community members, students, and designers transform parking spaces into temporary parklets.

From Parking Space...

When

This year's event is Friday, September 21st, 12pm-6pm. Set up can begin in the morning, but continues throughout the day. Parking space must be broken down by 8pm

Why

Park(ing) day educates, inspires, and involves the community in public space that was previously only for parking. This event opens the community's eyes to how an urban space could be when there is more useable space.

Who

Organized by the Kansas State Chapter of the American Society of Landscape Architects partnership with the Kansas State Landscape Architecture, Regional and Community Planning Program.

Where

We look to install Park(ing) spaces along Triangle Park off of Anderson.

A Greener Little Apple

Highlighting the importance of green infrastructure in cities- big to small!

Green infrastructure is a major component when thinking about the future planning and design of cities, neighborhoods and small spaces. Think about what green infrastructure means to you, your team, and your department. The benefits of green infrastructure are numerous and include things like: reducing energy costs, mitigating flooding, preserving natural resources, and enhances community quality of life and safety.

Your task is to think about what green infrastructure means to you, your team, and your discipline. Work together to create a vision for this meaning. And finally, bring this design to life in the form of an 8.5' X 22' parking space.

Installations that provide programming for community activities during the day such as sitting, lounging, eating, playing, etc. are encouraged.

SCASLA is very excited to host this event for the second year in a row. We are even more excited to share this day with you and see what different design ideas we can come up with!

Please feel free to contact our event head if you have any more questions about the event.
